
Derby Games

Posted by dave - 2008/05/04 07:18

Well the day has arrived. Cardiff is here and it is derby day again.

We have some catching up to do so lets hope we stuff em today.

=====

Re:Derby Games

Posted by lynn - 2008/06/01 23:17

Oooops n what was the score then Dave ?:woohoo:

=====

Re:Derby Games

Posted by dave - 2008/06/07 13:23

Fair do's, we lost, no argument there really.

I still have the faith though, come the end of season we will be above you. :P

=====

Re:Derby Games

Posted by dave - 2008/07/25 21:21

Been keeping my head down for a while as there has not been a lot to shout about. I kept faith and I knew we would start to come good eventually - and we did. 44 - 18. The cookie saga threatened to overshadow the record win, but for this black and white the good times are coming. We may or may not win the challenge cup, for me, we must finish above "them"

As the sole FC fan in the house I have taken some stick this season, but I say to them all, " You will be looking up at us come the end of the season".

=====

Re:Derby Games

Posted by dave - 2008/09/11 10:51

" Tried hard - failed miserably".

That kinda sums up what has been a tough season for us supporters.

Injuries, managerial changes, whatever the excuse, it has been bloody rough being a black n white in this house.

Only 2 thigs to brag about, wembley and our sole victory against "them"

Win or lose, they are my team and I will support them no matter what the future brings.

The other half (bless her) has bragging rights and to be fair, her dobbins have done well(added that under threat of violence).

No matter how well they do over at the vomitarium, there will only ever be one team in Hull - the mighty Hull F.C.

=====